

Privacy Policy

This privacy policy details how I collect, protect and share your personal information when you book an appointment with me, Daphne Graham and fill out a consultation form at your 1st appointment, or interact in any way with me via email, text or by phone.

I confirm that I am the only person that uses and collects any information that you give me. Your data is held securely at all times.

It is used for the purpose of giving you the best treatment which is specifically for your needs.

To provide invoices and receipts.

To contact you when needed with regard to appointments or follow up.

My insurance provider requires me to retain all records for a period of seven years after your last appointment.

Every precaution will be taken to avoid a breach of your data which is password protected and in a locked facility when not in use.